

The archeologist Pepito Jones is searching for treasure in a Mayan temple.
He finds some symbols engraved on a wall but some of the engravings have been damaged.

After continued research he discovers that all the damaged stones have had one of these three symbols drawn on them :

He knows too that two stones which touch one another cannot have the same symbol engraved on them.
To reach the treasure he must push on the stone that is engraved with the Mayans' sacred number.
This number can be found by adding the values engraved on the white stones. (Use the table of the Mayan numbers on the information sheet.)

Put a circle round the stone that Pepito has to push to get to the treasure.
